

BEST IN ENGLISH 2025/2026 STUDENTS COMMENTS

The Best in English competition is a very good opportunity to test my knowledge and it's actually a lot of fun, at least for me, ha ha. I recommend everyone to go ahead and take part in it.

The difficulty of the test fit my expectations, plus the instructions were clear, so I would sum up my experience as positive. I liked the choice of articles and videos, it was actually quite entertaining, unlike other competitions I've taken part in I'll definitely try it again next year.

Klára Čecilová, 3.A

The test was certainly hard, as expected, but in the end, there were not any situations or questions I've never heard before. Overall, I believe that even trying out this test is an amazing exercise for learning English.

Karolína Benešová, 3.A

Some sentences were hard to understand, because of some special words connected to the topic. The difficulty of the test fit my expectations and didn't surprise me. What surprised me though, was the listening part. I expected it to be more difficult to understand, but I understood the pronunciation very well. And the topics also weren't boring, so my attention didn't run out.

Stela Kalíšková, 3.A

The text was complex and fit my expectations considering the language level. I love the videos and that they were topical and adjusted to our age. I didn't like the chaos with some exercises when you have to move a lot up and down. I like the test otherwise.

The best in English competition was useful, since I got to practice my skills and see where I stand within my age group, I especially liked not having to be examined from speaking and just practicing my use of English, reading and listening. It's interesting to see how I did in this international test and I'd like to take it again next year.

Tereza Bělová, 3.B

The test seemed a little bit tough at the start. However, as I progressed further, I understood the words better. From my point of view, the listening part was the most difficult for me. I would say the test helped me in improving my vocabulary and grammar.

“Best in English” is an unusual competition, allowing you to compete not only against students in your own country, but also with other states and countries. It is also more exciting to be able to listen to interviews not only with experts but also perhaps with your favourite celebrity. Overall, it was a unique experience.

Adéla Milovnicková, oktáva A

I would say that this year’s “Best in English” competition was the best one yet. I felt connected to the themes that were mentioned. I think that is also the reason for my great performance today, which I am most definitely pleased with.

Simona Staňková, 4.A

The Best in English competition was just as fun as always. The text parts had various interesting topics, which brought some new knowledge into a person’s mind. All of the parts in the listening were nicely chosen. One of the listening topics also helped you to better understand yourself, as if it was about attention span.

Jiří Kňourek, oktáva B

Very nice, well-chosen texts and videos (interesting and topical), I don’t have to wait for results for a long time being completely angry. There was no technical problem, instructions were clear and it was generally a cool experience.

Marie Špalková, septima B

Best in English was interesting and nice competition, where you could join skills from different important areas. Texts and listening have great topics and it was nicely organized. I liked the possibility to know immediately after the test my result.

Julie Karasová, septima B

Best in English brought me a great experience, mainly with understanding English. The topics were very interesting. I not only practiced my English but also found out something about me, and I learnt something new.

Ha Linh Dang, 4. A

Interesting competition. The test was well composed and I like working with it – mainly the middle part. It was interesting as well as very synoptical.

Oskar Janda, 4.A

The test was pretty fun to take, even though I don’t believe I scored a high score. The video listening got a little confusing at one point, because two sounds started playing at once. I don’t really see myself doing it again next year, if I don’t do well.

Iveta Gabrielová, 3.A

It was quite difficult for me. I found it very confusing, but it is funny way to test your language skills. I am happy I participated even though I haven't got high score. I could not concentrate properly but I am glad to have this experience.

Khulan Dolgrormaa, 3.B

The Best in English competition was definitely challenging. It gave us a chance to compete and test our skills with other students from our school. Overall, it was enjoyable to take part in.
